NON-DOMESTIC

To Whom It May Concern:

As of December 19, 2007 the 14th amendment citizen known to the state of Illinois as DAVID FARR, will no longer be traveling by a name given by the United States government of the State of Illinois, a fictional corporate Identity as well as some ones personal property of business. The government ID known as a Drivers License, which carries the fictional Identity of a non existent person, DAVID FARR or corporate id no. of F-600-1607-0102, as well as state id with the same no. is found to be fraudulent, and therefore has no validity under common law. To be in subjection to this identity also puts oneself under jurisdiction of the laws under that corporate Identity. I will be traveling as a free Moorish American by the name of David Ali Muhammad or David Ali.
"No one may be required to obtain a license in order to speak." Thomas v. Collins, 323 U.S. 516, 543 (1944)

Thus, the State of Illinois can no more license David Farr's right to travel in his automobile than it could license his right to print or to speak, for they are inalienable rights.

License: In the law of contracts. A permission, accorded by a competent authority, conferring the right to do some act which without such authorization would be illegal, or would be a trespass or a tort.

The Driver's License is of a commercial nature and character. Such licenses are and can only be used to grant permission to one using the roads in a commercial capacity, and have no relation to their use in the exercise of the fundamental right to travel:

The ordinary use of the streets by the citizens is an inherent right which cannot be taken from him by the city and may only be controlled by reasonable regulation, while the right to use the streets for conducting thereupon a private business of any character is not an inherent or vested right and can only be acquired by permission or license from the city. Lane v. Writaker, 275 Fed. 476, 480.

“A license, therefore implying a privilege, cannot possibly exist with reference to something which is a right, free and open to all, as is the right of the citizen to ride and drive over the street of the city without charge and without toll.”—Supreme Court of Illinois.

Where the ostensible object of an enactment is to secure the public comfort, welfare, or safety, it must appear to be adapted to that end. It cannot invade the rights of person and property under the guise of a mere police regulation. City of Mt. Vernon v. Julian, 369 Ill 447, 451 (1938)

The right of a citizen to travel upon the public highways * * * includes the right to drive a horse-drawn carriage or wagon thereon, or to operate an automobile thereon, * * * The rights aforesaid, being fundamental, are constitutional rights, and while the exercise thereof may be reasonably regulated by legislative act in pursuance of the police power of the State, and although those powers are broad, they do not rise above those privileges which are embedded in the constitutional structure. The police power cannot justify the enactment of any law which amounts to an arbitrary and unwarranted interference with, or unreasonable restriction on, those rights of the citizen which are fundamental. Teche Lines v. Danforth, 12 So.2d 784, 787-88 (1943)

The power to license is the power to prohibit and does not conform to proper regulation of a Constitutional right. Licensing is an “extraordinary” measure which cannot be used to regulate an “ordinary right,” like the right to travel, since it prohibits that right.

Even the legislature has no power to deny to a citizen the right to travel upon the highway and transport his property in the ordinary course of his business or pleasure, though this right may be regulated in accordance with the public interest and convenience. Chicago Coach Co. v. City of Chicago, 337 Ill. 200, 206

The driver's license, as it applies to David Farr, is "merely idle and nugatory" because the rights it confers, or pretends to confer, are already "free and open" to him as an inherent right secured by our Illinois State Constitution. The driver's license cannot possibly grant the David Farr a right to travel on the public roads, when he already possesses an inherent right to do so.

It has been said that "the individual's ordinary right to the free use of the streets" for travel "cannot be taken from him." The reasonable regulation of a constitutional right, such as the right to freely travel on a public way, never included the power to prohibit it by licensing a person. Since "regulation is inconsistent with prohibition or exclusion," licensing is inconsistent with proper regulation of a right.

Chicago Coach Co. v. City of Chicago, 337 Ill. 200, 206)

As a free natural born sovereign of America, I do not want any of the cities, or counties within the Illinois Territory to use my name on any corporate documents without my consent, or signature, there will be a fine of $20,000.00 in the proper legal ensuing action of Defamation of Character and F R A U D !!!

How I will be traveling is on the 4th page of this document.

Sincerely the citizen
Of Illinois Republic

INTERNATIONAL TRAVEL BRIEF

Know all men by these presents, that I, David Ali, do travel upon the highways and roads of these United States as a matter of asserted Common Law rights. That I assert my full sovereignty as a free and natural Man under the Common Law of the Constitution of the United States of America, to wit:

1. "The use of the highway for the purpose of travel and transportation is not a mere privilege but a Common and fundamental right of which the public and individuals cannot rightfully be deprived." Chicago Motor Coach v. Chicago, 337 Ill. 200, 169 NE 22, 66 ALR 834. Ligare v. Chicago, 139 Ill. 46, 28 NE 934. Boone v. Clark, 214 SW 607; 25 AM JUR (1st) Highways, Sec. 163.
2. "The right of the citizen to travel upon the public highways and to transport his property thereon, Either by a carriage or automobile, is not a mere privilege which a City may prohibit or permit at will, but a common right which he has under the right to Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness." Thompson v. Smith 154 SE 579.
3. "Where rights secured by the Constitution are involved, there can be no rule-making or legislation Which would abrogate them." Miranda v. Arizona 384 U.S. 436, 491.
4. "The claim and exercise of a Constitutional right cannot be converted into a crime." Miller v. U.S. 230 F 2d 486, 489.
5. "Our system of government, based upon the individuality and intelligence of the citizen, the state Does not claim to control him, except as his conduct to others, leaving him the sole judge as to all That only affects himself." Mugler v Kansas 123 U.S. 623, 659-60.

This statement has been submitted upon demand of a driver's license, registration, proof of insurance, and therefore, is part of the official record of any ensuing action and must be introduced as evidence in said action. It will be noted that willful suppression of evidence is a felony. Therefore, any detainment of my person or confiscation of my personal property by any law enforcement officers, or agents thereof, will be punished by full extent of the law, for violating the rights of the "foreign status" known as David Ali and are liable to all penalties, fines, and even imprisonment thereof. There will be no immunity from prosecution.

David Ali travel times start as of 9/9/2007 until specified by foreign identification travel, for the "foreign status" to end.
