and infraconcretions) bivalves will have to take an alternative, bypass the concretion, in order to deposit calcite, and such calcification is thereby delayed to be present eventually.

In deductible parts, there is no advantage to having a large sum of money in savings, as there is no advantage to having a large sum of money in a checking account. In fact, it is better to have a smaller amount of money in a checking account, because it is easier to withdraw money from a checking account than it is to withdraw money from a savings account.
