statutory period during which it may be issued. Mortgagor, however, have the discretion to refuse to take or to abandon possession of said premises without affecting the rights of Mortgagee who have all power, any, which it might have had without this paragraph. No suit shall be sustainable against Mortgagee based upon acts or omissions relating to the subject matter of this paragraph unless commenced within sixty days after Mortgagee's possession ceases.

K. That upon the commencement of any foreclosure proceeding hereunder, the court in which such bill is filed may at any time, either before or after sale, and without notice to the Mortgagor, or any party claiming under him, and without regard to the solvency of the Mortgagor or the then value of said premises, or whether the same shall then be occupied by the owner of the equity of redemption as a homestead, appoint a receiver with power to manage and rent and to collect the rents, issues and profits of said premises during the pendency of such foreclosure suit and the statutory period of redemption, and such rents, issues and profits, when collected, may be applied before as well as after the sale, towards the payment of the indebtedness, costs, taxes, insurance or other items necessary for the protection and preservation of the property, including the expenses of such receivership, or on any deficiency decree whether there be a decree therefor in personam or not, and if a receiver shall be appointed he shall remain in possession until the expiration of the full period allowed by statute for redemption, whether there be redemption or not, and until the issuance of deed in case of sale, but if no deed be issued, until the expiration of the statutory period during which it may be issued and no lease of said premises shall be nullified by the appointment or entry in possession of a receiver but he may elect to terminate any lease junior to the one hereof.

L. That each right, power and remedy herein conferred upon the Mortgagee is cumulative of every other right or remedy of the Mortgagee, whether herein or by law conferred, and may be enforced concurrently therewith, that no waiver by the Mortgagee of performance of any covenant herein or in said obligation contained shall thereafter in any manner affect the right of Mortgagee to require or enforce performance of the same or any other of said covenants, that wherever the context hereof requires, the masculine gender, as used herein, shall include the feminine and the neuter and the singular number, as used herein, shall include the plural; that all rights and obligations under this mortgage shall extend to and be binding upon the respective heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns of the Mortgagor, and the successors and assigns of the Mortgagee; and that the powers herein mentioned may be exercised as often as occasion therefor arises.

I in case the mortgaged property, or any part thereof, shall be taken by condemnation, the Mortgagor is hereby empowered to collect and receive all compensation which may be paid to any property taken or to any property taken or to the amount of the damage to the mortgaged property, or to any part thereof, to the mortgagee, or to the independent receiver of the condemnation compensation received thereby, or to the Mortgagor if he is entitled thereto.

Q What claim is of the essence of a general power of attorney?

A If a general power of attorney is granted by a principal to an attorney-in-fact, it will make any other power or right given to the attorney-in-fact redundant if the principal subsequently grants another power of attorney to someone else.

Q Is it possible to grant a power of attorney for a limited purpose?

A Yes, it is possible to grant a power of attorney for a limited purpose, or if the principal wants to give the attorney-in-fact the power to act only in certain circumstances, such as making a will or settling an inheritance.

Q Can a power of attorney be terminated by the principal?

A Yes, a power of attorney can be terminated by the principal at any time, or if the principal becomes incompetent or dies.

Q What happens if the principal becomes incompetent or dies?

A If the principal becomes incompetent or dies, the power of attorney will end unless there is a provision in the original power of attorney that allows the attorney-in-fact to continue acting on behalf of the principal even if the principal becomes incompetent or dies.

5. There is no minimum number of security payments or amounts due and outstanding written notices shall not be given without notice to the mortgagor under the terms of this mortgage; and

D. This is in case of failure to pay or default by the lessee, the lessor may do all things necessary to protect the lessee's interest in the leasehold property, including repossessing it; and the lessor may do all things necessary to collect any money due under the lease, including repossessing the property and recovering the money due.

make for different working patterns and different interrelated roles and other aspects of the contract, but in all other respects the contract shall remain in full force and effect as if it had not been varied, including all clauses.

B. In order to provide for the payment of taxes, assessments, maintenance and other charges upon the property according to law, it is necessary to pay to the Collector of Taxes, interest and principal amounts due and payable on all debts, obligations and contracts of the person and to pay monthly to the Auditor General principal amounts due and payable on all debts, obligations and contracts of the State.
