Dotorow's novel depicts a society where people are assigned their place in life based on their genetic makeup. Over time, the society becomes more stratified, with the wealthy at the top and the poor at the bottom. The protagonist, a man named Nima, is assigned to the middle class, but he is born with a rare genetic condition that makes him physically disabled. He is forced to live in a segregated area of the city and is unable to find work or a place to live. The novel explores the theme of social inequality and the ways in which it can lead to discrimination and prejudice.

4. Charitable Intent. Your estate shall pay all taxes, assessments, charges, dues and impositions attributable to the property which may accrue during the period between the date of death and the date of distribution.
