A. Variable Rate.

The Annual Percentage Rate and its corresponding daily periodic rate may increase or decrease. The current daily periodic rate that would be applicable if the introductory rate was not in effect is .026% (corresponding ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE of 9.35 %). The Introductory Annual Percentage Rate will end on the last day of December 1993. On the first day of January 1994 and every twelfth month thereafter, my Annual Percentage Rate may change due to a change in the Index. Each date on which my Annual Percentage Rate could change due to a change in the Index is called a "Change Date". The new Annual Percentage Rate will become effective on each Change Date and will apply to my unpaid principal balance until the rate is changed again. The Annual Percentage Rate includes only interest and no other charges.

My Annual Percentage Rate may change between Change Dates if my method of making payments changes, and I either become eligible or lose my eligibility for the 25 basis point reduction in my Annual Percentage Rate.

B. The Index.

Beginning on the first Change Date, my Annual Percentage Rate will be based on the Index. The "Index" is the weekly average yield on United States Treasury securities adjusted to a constant maturity of one year, as published by the Federal Reserve Board in its weekly Statistical Release (H.15). The Index also is published each Tuesday in the Key Interest Rates table of The Wall Street Journal. The most recent Index figure published by the Federal Reserve Board as of the date 45 days before each Change Date is called the "Current Index".
